NEISWANGER IS GRANTED A RESEARCH

DEPAUW TEACHER AWARDED HONOR BY SOCIAL SCIENCE COUNCIL

SELECTIVE FEW GIVEN GRANTS

Prof. William A. Neiswanger Has Been On DePauw University Faculty Since 1929

Prof. William A. Neiswanger, of the department of economics at DePauw university, has received word that he is one of thirty-one scholars to be awarded a research grant by the social sciences research council. The official announcement has just been released in New York City.

These grants aggregate $22,200 and are for the purpose of aiding mature scholars of demonstrated ability to complete undertakings which promise significant contributions to the social sciences. This definition came from the committee on awards of which Prof. Alfred M. Tozzer of Harvard university is chairman.

The social sciences research council exists "to further the scientific study of the activities of human beings" and is composed of representatives of each of the societies within the social sciences including the American Economic Association, the American Political Science Association, the American Historical Association, the American Sociological Society and the American Psychological Association.

Each year many studies in these fields are investigated by the council and a selected few are given grants. This year four economists received grants to aid in financing their researches, one of whom was the DePauw faculty member. The list includes professors from the University of Pennsylvania, Harvard, Smith college, Queens College of Canada and several midwestern universities.

Professor Neiswanger's project is a statistical study on banking problems to show the extent of the economic power of Federal Reserve banks over a small banking community. Prof. Neiswanger has been on the DePauw faculty since 1929. He received his A. B. degree from Washington college in 1922 and his Master's degree from Columbia university in 1923.

PEEPER IS CAUGHT BY STUDENTS

EARL WELLS, 22, LODGED IN COUNTY JAIL BY CITY POLICE

FRANCIS MORAN ARRESTED

Second Greencastle Man Charged With Public Intoxication Following Arrest

Earl Wells, 22 years old, of south Greencastle, was lodged in the county jail Wednesday night on a charge of window peeping, after he was caught on a fire escape at the Alpha Omicron Pi sorority house, 607 south Locust street, by students.

It was reported that coeds saw the young man on the fire escape as they were returning to the house shortly before 10 o'clock and they notified their male escorts, two of whom apprehended the youth and held him until the arrival of city police.

Students who captured the alleged peeper were James Clemons and John Medaris.

Wells, who formerly lived in Madison township, was said to have served a term on the Indiana state farm several years ago for window peeping at Anderson. Recently he has been employed in Greencastle as a trucker's assistant.

Police stated Thursday morning that they did not believe Wells had any connection with a burglary at the Alpha O house last Saturday night in which $25 and two pairs of silk hose were taken.

It was reported Thursday morning that occupants of the Alpha Chi Omega sorority house, 509 south Locust street, had seen two men prowling around their house Wednesday evening. From descriptions furnished by them it was believed that the two were the same persons who were seen prowling around the Alpha O house last Saturday.

City police also arrested Francis Moran, age 30 years, of Greencastle, early Wednesday evening, on a charge of intoxication. Police said that Moran was badly intoxicated when they found him on the north side of the public square.

WINTER EASY ON WHEAT

INDIANAPOLIS, April 9 (UP)—

Winter wheat has survived the dry winter in fair to good condition, and low March temperatures have retarded vegetation in general to a favorable extent, according to J. H. Armstrong, Senior Meteorologist, U. S. weather bureau, who today issued the first weekly crop report of 1931.

"Streams and wells are reported full for the first time in several months," the report states, "and the soil is moist to a considerable depth, though the deep subsoil is still dry."

"Stone fruits are blooming heavily in the extreme southwest, and early fruit buds are swelling in central sections. Some onions were sown in northeastern growing sections, and in the southwest sweet potato beds and melon fields were prepared."

"Planting potatoes is reported from the central counties southward, and garden making is rather extensive in the south."

LONE STAR CO. TO FURNISH ILL. CEMENT

ILLINOIS DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS BUYS 650,000 BARRELS

The Lone Star Cement Company of Limestone, will furnish 650,000 barrels of the five million barrels of Portland cement bought by the Illinois department of public works and buildings this week. The cement will be used for Illinois road and bridge construction in 1931.

Three million barrels were purchased from four Illinois concerns while other successful bidders included the Universal Atlas Cement Company, Buffington, Ind., and Hannibal, Mo., 900,000 barrels and the Lone Star Company 650,000 barrels.

Bids were submitted some time ago by contractors but formal awards were held up pending the outcome of a controversy which arose in Illinois over the question of whether or not all bids should be awarded to Illinois concerns to help the labor situation in that state.

The bid awarded the local plant will provide work here for several weeks.

TO ABANDON LINES

A court order has been issued by Superior Judge Russell Ryan of Marion county, for abandonment of the Terre Haute-Clinton and Terre Haute-Sullivan interurban lines of the Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Eastern Traction Company, it was announced today.

The order which awaits approval of the Public Service Commission, was issued on a petition by Elmer W. Stout, receiver for the traction company.

Discontinuance of the lines follows closely the order for abandonment of the Indianapolis-Richmond line belonging to the same company. The latter order is awaiting action of the Public Service Commission.

Stout, who has been operating the traction company since April 21, 1930, cites that the lines have shown a loss. The Sullivan line's operating deficit from January 1, 1930 to January 1, 1931, was set forth as $50,092.73, and that of the Terre Haute-Clinton division for the same period $43,349.96. This makes no allowance for depreciation, rentals, bond interest, or return upon investment, the petition says.

CITY HALL SWEEP CLEAN BY CERMAK

NEW MAYOR OF CHICAGO GETS RID OF THOMPSON'S EMPLOYEES

GOES INTO OFFICE TODAY

Cermak Announces He Will Make Active War On Crime In Windy City

CHICAGO, April 9. (UP)—The change in municipal leadership which Chicagoans decreed by a record-shattering vote came about today with amazing swiftness as mayor-elect Anton J. Cermak moved without ceremony into the city hall where Big Bill Thompson previously had ruled.

It was a great day, and a busy one, for Cermak, marking as it did the climax of his steady rise from an immigrant boy and mine worker to the mayoralty of the world's fourth largest city.

Leaders in the city's business, professional and church life declared it was as "big" a day for Chicago as it was for Cermak.

One of the important things upon the new executive's program for his day was the official tendering of his resignation as president of the Cook county board.

County Judge Edmond K. Jarecki said the board of election commissioners would announce early the official vote of Tuesday's election, in which Big Bill, "the old master," was turned out of office by an unofficial vote of 667,529 to 475,613.

All that remained for Cermak to become mayor in fact after the votes were cast was for them to be counted officially—and never in the history of Chicago was an election canvass completed in such haste.

The spirit of change ruled and there were no delays. Thompson and his followers joined in to and the movement away from the city hall was as amazing as that into it.

"The people have spoken," declared Big Bill with a smile. He announced he was leaving town immediately for a rest. Most of the members of his cabinet also announced they were going away.

It was arranged to swear in new aldermen and other elected officials today, then to induct Cermak formally into office at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

A special meeting of the new council, composed of 30 Democrats and 20 Republicans, was called for that hour so the new mayor could assume active control, have his bond approved, and begin in an effort to mandate him to sell the bonds.

The new mayor last night named two of the men he will appoint to his cabinet.

Col. Albert A. Sprague, he announced, will be commissioner of public works and Francis X. Busch will be corporation counsel, at least for 60 days.

These are the two most important positions in the cabinet. Both men held the same positions in the cabinet of former Mayor William E. Dever. Cermak said he would ask Busch to remain in office for four years, but that Busch was unwilling to give up his private law practice for that long.

Cermak made it plain he would turn out of office all members of the old Thompson cabinet.

"It is expected," he said, "that all bureau heads will have their resignations by the time I take office." None failed to take the hint and the "great exodus" left the city hall practically bare.

PROMINENT MAN DEAD

Russellville Man Returned To Prison

WILLIAM LAWSON MUST FINISH 2 TO 14 YEAR TERM FOLLOWING ARREST

Clinton authorities arrested William Lawson last Saturday on charges of check forging. He was on parole from Pendleton at the time he was arrested. He was taken back to finish a two to 14 year sentence, of which four years had already been served. His home is near Russellville.

Lawson forged several checks in Rockville last week, but authorities didn't want any information published until he was apprehended. The bad checks were taken at the G. C. Murphy Co., Oakley's and Oscar Clark's. He used Roscoe Harrison's name on the checks forged here.—Rockville Tribune.

ISAAC SKELTON WINS CONTRACT; MONEY WITHHELD

Isaac Skelton, gravel road contractor, has gotten himself a contract but there is no pay in sight for the work.

County treasurer G. William Baumgartner, acting on advice of attorney John M. Rawley and others, halted the formal proceedings for the construction of the Emma Klein road in Lewis township, when he rejected all bids for the purchase of bonds to build the road. The commissioners had approved the project and had let the contract in a regular way to Mr. Skelton. Commissioners say that the matter is now beyond them and it will probably be up to the contractor or the petitioners to file suit against the treasurer in an effort to mandate him to sell the bonds.

The road in question runs south from Coalmont past the east side of Shu-kamuk state park connecting with a trunk line in Greene county running into Jasonville.—Brazil Times.

State Farm Women Hold Tree Planting

TULIP TREES PLANTED AT STATE FARM GATE BY WOMEN

The wives of the officials at the Indiana State Farm have a club, which is quite active in the affairs around the institution and on Wednesday afternoon, they held a tree planting at the main entrance of the State Farm that was unusually interesting. About twenty of the members took part in the program.

Mrs. Kennedy was in charge. Two trees of the Tulip-Poplar, had been found on the farm and as this is the official state tree, they were thought suitable for planting at the main gate of the farm. The trees were said to be six years old and were transplanted during the afternoon, with a proper program of readings, songs, and short talks.

Among those who came here as guests of Mrs. Ralph Howard were Mrs. Roy M. Abrams, Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Hardacre, Mrs. Goodbar, and Mrs. Loup.

PNEUMONIA IS FATAL TO LONGWORTH

SPEAKER OF HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES DIES AT 10:52 A. M.

WAS ILL ONLY SHORT TIME

Prominent Republican Survived By Widow, Alice Roosevelt Longworth, And Daughter

AIKEN, S. C., April 9 (UP)—Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house of representatives in the 69th, 70th and 71st congresses, died today.

Death came within two days after Longworth's serious illness with pneumonia had become known.

The speaker—a powerful figure in the Republican party and beloved by political friend and foe alike—was stricken while a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Curtis at this winter resort.

Tuesday night his illness was diagnosed as pneumonia and Mrs. Longworth, "Princess Alice Roosevelt," was summoned from Washington.

For a time the doctors were hopeful. But soon their bulletins became increasingly alarming.

At 10:52 A. M. today Dr. Robert H. Wilds, chief of the medical staff attending Longworth came to a window in the Curtis old Colonial mansion.

He raised his hand in one slow gesture to the waiting newspapers. It was a signal to the world that the speaker of the United States house of representatives was dead.

Back of the mansion, negro stable boys were exercising half a dozen of the Curtis sleek hunting mounts. Brilliant sunshine splashed over the Carolina hills, flush with the radiance of spring.

Longworth died in the kind of setting he loved best, amid the elegance of a millionaire's winter home with its flowering magnolias sweeping the lawns, where sport and laughter and ease reigned, and epicureans paraded.

Just before the signal of death was waved from the sick room window, a doctor was rushed up the driveway at terrific speed and without pausing to give his name ran up the steps and burst through the door apparently in answer to a frantic call. But apparently Longworth had even then passed beyond the help of human hands.

Just before Longworth died, when all hope had been abandoned, a great motor truck rumbled through the gates and to a rear door. Trunks and hat boxes were piled into it—Nick Longworth's baggage being sent to the train for his last long journey.

Twenty minutes before the Speaker died, Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLenn of Washington, D. C. arrived by motor car to be with her friend, Mrs. Longworth.

Keith and Archie Roosevelt, understood to be flying here to join their sister, had not arrived yet.

The body will be sent immediately to Cincinnati the family home, it was learned.

Longworth had been an annual guest of the Curtises. He arrived about April 1, a month after the end of his most strenuous session as Speaker. He was suffering from a cold. On April 6 he was ordered to bed and his physicians diagnosed his illness as pneumonia.

Longworth was 61 years old and his age was a factor in the rapid progress of the pneumonia condition. The strenuous short and concluding session of the 71st Congress this winter imposed a severe strain on Longworth, not only because of his official responsibilities as Speaker, but owing to his informal role of conciliator among embattled members of his own party.

Funeral services will be held at the Longworth home in Cincinnati at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. President Hoover announced this afternoon that he will attend the service.

Those who plan to attend from here are Mrs. R. A. Ogg, Mrs. H. R. Nicholas and Mrs. Frank Donner.

Discussion Group Meeting Postponed

The Discussion Group of the Second Ward P. T. A. which was to have met Friday afternoon, April 10, has been postponed until April 17.

One Hundred Attend W. F. M. S. Meeting

An interesting meeting was held at the Methodist church Wednesday afternoon when about one hundred women of the church and town came together for the monthly meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the church. The Mary Reed group was in charge of the program. Mrs. Frank Donner presided and Miss Marjorie Call, played several beautiful harp selections, closing with a group of hymns.

The speaker for the afternoon was Dr. Hawthorne Darby, who has spent the past five years as a physician in the Mary I. Johnson hospital at Manila, Philippine Islands. She first gave a brief history of the islands and told how, for five hundred years, the people were held down with an iron rule, then, through prayer, an opening was made for Christianity to enter and a great change has been made since then. Enlightenment is taking the place of ignorance. In Manila alone, there are 100,000 children in the schools. Medical missionary work has been a great entering wedge. Hearts are reached when the sick babies, crippled children and diseased bodies can be taken to a hospital where there are Christian doctors and nurses and restored to health. Surgical work is Mrs. Darby's speciality but she is a woman of prayer, depending on God's help and power in all of her work. Dr. Darby is not a stranger in Greencastle; she graduated from DePauw in 1917 and found many friends who gathered about her at the close of the meeting. A social hour followed, Mrs. Effie Steigleman and Mrs. Donner with their group committee were the hostesses for the afternoon.

Danville Fraternity Held Dinner-Dance at Hotel Grant

The Tri Delta Kappa fraternity of Danville held their annual dinner-dance at the Hotel Grant, Wednesday evening. More than forty members were present.

Mrs. Snider Hostess To Veronica Club

Mrs. Lawrence Snider was hostess to the Veronica club, Wednesday afternoon at her home on Elm street. Mrs. Gerald Mason read an interesting paper on "The Discoveries of Mounds in Indiana". The members hemmed towels for the hospital. During the social hour the hostess served delicious refreshments.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul. You often break out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent "substitutes"

BEES IN PACKAGES GOOD FOR ORCHARD

During recent years a large business has been developed by southern beekeepers in package bees, which has been a significant aid to northern beekeepers, according to B. E. Montgomery of the Entomology Department of Purdue University. Orchard men who need bees early in the spring for pollination purposes find this method of starting colonies of bees to have many advantages. The beginner also finds it desirable to start his apiary by using package bees. Not infrequently the commercial beekeeper finds this method of enlarging his apiary or replacing lost colonies to be advantageous.

There are about 5,000 bees in a pound and they may be obtained in packages holding one or more pounds. The two-pound size appears to be the most popular for all purposes, but the three pound size may be better for orchardists who are ordering bees for use in orchard pollination. Unless otherwise ordered, a queen is included in each package. As a rule the queen is shipped in a small "queen cage" placed within the package.

Package bees are shipped by mail or express in small wood and screen cages with sufficient food for the duration of the trip. The food consists of sugar syrup. As no honey or comb is included all danger of disease is eliminated.

Direction for handling package bees when they arrive will be found in Extension Bulletin No. 158, which may be secured from Purdue University Extension Department upon request. Names of southern beekeepers who supply package bees may be found in any beekeeping journal or they also will be furnished by the Department of Entomology, Purdue University, upon request.

HOLLYWOOD FILM SHOP

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. (UP)—Story conferences have been story conferences ever since the first movie studio came to Hollywood, but every once in a while one crops up of more than usual interest.

The movie public generally is aware that the Board of Censors, a rather intangible booby that frightens the producers and directors, recently decreed that crows in the animated cartoons should be entirely removed from the diary business.

The pen and ink boys, who draw Mickey Mouse, Oswald the Rabbit, and other talking cartoon characters, were in a very sad state of mind for some time afterward.

Walter Lantz, creator of Oswald, called a story conference to determine just what steps should be taken.

Hundreds of sketches were submitted and paper littered the floor.

Finally Lantz hit upon an idea. He attired Madame Cow in a Mother Hubbard frock. Her part in the picture was to run down a railroad track.

But Bossy found difficulty running in a Mother Hubbard and the artists became tired of drawing the bulky dress.

Finally, when the comic strip was about half finished, Lantz threw up his hands and moaned: "What will we do?"

"Oh, let the train hit her," said one of his disgruntled assistants.

Then—just about the time the assistant was prepared to laugh at his own remark—Lantz surprised the group.

"Swell idea," he declared. "Change the script. Draw a train. We'll end this whole thing in the next scene."

And the cow, a hapless sacrifice to fashion, was just a bit too slow in leaping from the track in the next scene.

EDITOR'S GAVEL WILL HAVE HISTORIC MEANING

SAPULPA, Okla., (UP)—The gavel that taps the 26th meeting of Oklahoma editors to order in Sapulpa on May 22 will echo history.

The solid oak mallet is a portion of the house in which pioneering Creek family of Sapulpa lived when they came here and this city was named after them.

The gavel is being carved by manual training students at the Sapulpa high school.

Green Element In Plant Life Is Separated

GOVERNMENT SCIENTISTS HAVE SUCCEEDED AFTER LONG EXPERIMENTS

WASHINGTON, April 7 (UP)—Scientists in the bureau of chemistry and soils of the Department of Agriculture by an elaborate series of experiments, have succeeded in separating chlorophyll—the green element in plants—from the rest of the plant.

The work of these scientists is expected to be of much value in studying plant diseases, and also in determining whether it is possible to produce plant products synthetically.

To those who are not scientists, it may be explained that chlorophyll bears much the same relationship to the plant that haemoglobin bears to the human being. The haemoglobin is the red blood corpuscle which carries the necessary oxygen through the human body, and the chlorophyll is the green element which enables the plant to convert the carbon dioxide of the air into sugars and cellulose materials.

Scientists long have known that chlorophyll was the pigment which caused plants to be green. It abounds in large quantities in most plants, but for some time could not be separated from the various other chemical substances and mixtures. A complicated experiment evolved by the bureau has thoroughly separated it from the plant.

In addition, another series of experiments had been helpful in separating the carotin and xanthophyll from the plant.

Carotin and xanthophyll are the substances in plants which cause the leaves to turn yellow, or orange, in the autumn, when the sun's rays have dried up the chlorophyll, or green pigment, in the plants. Carotin has been known for sometime as a copper colored pigment, but science has never been able to ascertain the value of the substance to plant life, nor have they been able to ascertain the exact value of xanthophyll, which is a pale yellow pigment.

The green chlorophyll pigment has been shown to contain carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen and magnesium. The only practical chemical difference in the organic construction of the green chlorophyll in plants and the red haemoglobin in blood is that the chlorophyll contains magnesium and the haemoglobin contains iron.

World Workers Among Blind Will Convene

EXPERTS OF 36 NATIONS WILL EXCHANGE IDEAS AT CONVENTION

NEW YORK, April 8 (UP)—More than 100 experts on the welfare of the blind, representing 36 nations, will attend the World Conference for the Blind here from April 13 to 17. Miss Helen Keller and Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy will be guests of honor.

Some of the objectives are: to promote international acquaintance among world leaders in work for the blind; to advise world workers for the blind in improving their activities at home; to affect rapid international exchange of information regarding their work; to promote the interchange of books, sheet music, and periodicals among countries speaking the same language; to co-operate in establishing uniform Braille, music, and mathematic codes; and to enlist co-operative promotion of local employment.

After five days' conference here the foreign delegates will leave April 19 for a nine day tour through the Northeastern states. Then returning here the delegates will convene on April 29-30 to receive committee reports.

X-RAY MAY DETERMINE EXISTENCE OF OLD PAINTINGS

PHILADELPHIA, April, (UP)—The X-ray method of determining whether an old painting is genuine may be utilized to learn if a Gilbert Stuart masterpiece hides under the more recent coat of paint applied to the sign of the old King of Prussia tavern.

The sign is now owned by the Germantown Historical Society. Local traditions say that Stuart painted the original and many old residents of Germantown believe that the ancient sign, which witnessed the march of the Continentals under Washington, was covered with paint during the past 50 years.

New Ford Town Sedan

A new town sedan has just been introduced by the Ford Motor Company to replace the former car of the same type.

To conform to the new slanting windshield with its inside sun visor the design of the body has been changed in a number of particulars, resulting in more pleasing lines and increased comfort.

The body is approximately three inches longer, providing increased leg room in the rear compartment and greater thickness in the seat backs. The seats are wider, higher and more restful, and, being low, allow more head room.

A new feature of the town sedan is that the rear quarter windows may be raised or lowered.

John S. Beach, chief of the retirement division of the Pension Office, and V. J. Biller, chairman of the committee on education and retirement of the union, urged the need for retirement at a younger age.

Biller said workers should be retired after 20 years' service, regardless of age. Beach suggested the age limit be reduced to 60 for all classes of employees.

Further legislative reforms were urged by Joseph Stanfield, president of the union, who suggested establishment of a "Board of Civil Service Appeals" to which employees might carry complaints of "unfair" administration of compensation and efficiency ratings.

DePauw Debaters Complete Season

Forensic Teams Meet Twenty-Four Schools in Men and Women's Debates

The DePauw debating teams have just finished one of their most successful seasons in intercollegiate competition. During the year DePauw met fourteen teams in men's debates and ten in women's debates.

Of the men's debates six were decided by judges, five of the six decisions going to DePauw. The women won all of the decisions in these debates judged by a critic. On other occasions numerous audience decisions were awarded DePauw teams.

In the first semester of this year the men debaters participated in two international debates, meeting a team from Cambridge, England, and one from Germany. A debate was also held against the University of Michigan.

In the course of this semester men's teams debated Miami University, Indiana University, Dayton University, Indiana Law School, Indiana State Normal, Earlham College, Wabash College, Lake Forest College, and Kent College of Law over radio station WLS.

The questions debated by the men were on the adoption of unemployment insurance, compulsory conscription of wealth in wartime, capital punishment, dominion status for India, and that nationalism is a positive evil.

The men who have represented DePauw in varsity debates this year are: John Hughes, Roland Mattheis, John George, Harold Jack, Norman Ferguson, David Kingman, Charles White, Carl Hintz, Ray Donaldson, William Gilbreath, Vergil Miller, Everett Aldredge, Lyons Yoder, John Millett, Paul Lyons, Cedric Stanley, Gordon Montgomery, Robert Justice, Arthur Fear, and William Cragen.

The women this year debated Cincinnati, Ohio University, Miami University, St. Mary, Albion, and Franklin. All these debates were won by the women.

The women taking part in these debates were: Bethel Williams, Helen Dickinson, Clare McKim, Mary Sargent, Mary Pirtle, Virginia Davis, Charlotte Epple, Juanita Jane Rucker, Mary M. Twissler, Marjorie and Virginia Dove, Sherrod Brown, and Mary Elizabeth Baldwin.

The questions for the women were unemployment insurance, abolition of social fraternities, and the abolishment of legal censorship.

For the first semester the teams were coached by Patrick J. Smith of the speech department. During the second semester the men were coached by Prof. Harold T. Ross and the women by Professor Smith.

Put Your Faith In Konjola—Tens of Thousands Have To Their Everlasting Joy.

Experiences such as that of Mr. Harry Winchester, 31 Monument Avenue, Charleston, near Boston, are worth reading. He says: "An operation so weak that I could barely get about. And now Mrs. Annie Goodrich, 141 Broadway, Chelsea, near Boston, has this to say: "I had rheumatic fever and my limbs became so swollen that I was helpless. I suffered frightfully and could not turn in bed without aid. Konjola helped me from the first. Today I am up and about and free from pain and misery. The swelling has left my limbs. I cannot recommend Konjola enough."

Spring Sports At DePauw

DePauw university will open its spring baseball schedule Saturday against Indiana university's nine at Bloomington. Coach Lloyd Messersmith has had his diamond aspirants working out for nearly a month going through their routine on the big gymnasium floor during bad weather and taking to the field during days of sunshine.

This is Coach Messersmith's first year as baseball mentor succeeding Coach Raymond R. Neal when the latter was relieved of this sport on assuming the role of head football coach last September. DePauw's diamond schedule calls for eleven tilts.

Coach Messersmith has twelve lettermen from which to build his team: Bert Anson, Huntington; Farrington Bridwell, Indianapolis; Ralph Horaday, Alfordville; Ernest Beler, Chicago; Phillip Bradbury, Cliftondale, Mass.; Kenneth Lefler, Highmore, S. D.; Kenneth Olsen, Hammond, Wis.; Collins Wilman, Dupont; Raymond Coate, Kokomo, Forest Real, Clinton; Hayden Hoffman, Commiskey; and Elbert Huguenin, Odon. The schedule:

April 11—At Indiana.
April 17—Indiana Central.

May 23—At Indiana Central.
May 26—At Wabash.

Coach L. C. Buchheit, DePauw university's track mentor, is busy shaping the Tiger thinly clad to defend their little state title which DePauw has held for the last six years. Graduation cut heavily into the Old Gold track ranks and Coach Buchheit has a job replacing such men as Captain Ramsey, dashes, and Button, field events.

Only a nucleus remains of the championship relay teams of last year, Spina and Melbourne. The schedule calls for the Tigers to compete in seven track meets this year. Coach Buchheit will depend a great deal upon his lettermen for points in these meets. They are Forest Crain, Holyoke, Mass.; Cloyd Julian, Muncie; Rupert Kilgore, Marion; Orville Melbourne, Clinton, and Victor Spina, Berwin, Ill.

The schedule:
April 15—At State Normal, Terre Haute.
April 18—Earlham, Miami, and DePauw, here.

April 22—At Ball Teachers, Muncie.
May 2—Ohio Relays.
May 9—Little State Meet at Muncie.

May 16—Big State Meet at Purdue.
May 23—Buckeye Conference meet at Cincinnati.

Spring football practice is in full swing at DePauw university. Coach Raymond Neal, who won six of seven games his first year as mentor, expects to have another winning eleven next fall with fourteen lettermen back for the squad. The schedule calls for eight games, one of which is an intersectional affair with Buckeye university, and three with Buckeye Conference teams.

Oct. 3—Manchester, here.
Oct. 10—At Cincinnati.
Oct. 17—Earlham, here.
Oct. 24—Boston, here. (Old Gold Day)
Oct. 31—At Franklin (Homecoming)
Nov. 7—Ohio university, here.
Nov. 14—Hanover, here.
Nov. 21—At Wabash.

DePauw university's tennis team will be enabled to play this year if a Tennis Benefit Hop, sponsored by Sigma Delta Chi, is a success Friday night. Tennis was cut off the athletic program due to a lack of funds.

Peiping Plans World's Fair

PEKING, April 8 (UP)—Detailed plans are now being made here for holding a world's fair in this ancient city.

Wu Ta-nieh, former director of the native products' exhibition in Peiping, has established offices here for this purpose and has announced that $1,000,000 silver is to be appropriated by the government for preliminary expenses.

Wu states that the International Industrial Exhibition, as it is to be called, will be held from March through July, 1932, but Dr. H. H. King, head of the Ministry of Industry in Nanking, argues that it be postponed until 1933 so that there will be ample time for preparation.

According to the present plans, the palace museum, the Temple of Heaven and the summer palace grounds will be utilized for the exhibitions. The fair is part of the ten-year plan for the cultural development of Peiping in order to restore the prosperity of this city which has suffered continued depression since the national capital was moved to Nanking.

A KNIGHT COMES FLYING

Dave Ordway, wealthy, young aviator, makes a forced landing in an orange grove in the hinterland of Florida. Looking for the owner to pay for the damage, Dave comes upon two beautiful girls in overalls. Joan Marbury, with the aid of her cousin, Sally, has been running the plantation since her father's death. Fearing the wrath of Mueller, owner of the adjoining groves, when he learns of the damage to his trees, the girls urge Dave to leave. He insists upon reimbursing Mueller, and when he learns Mueller has been molesting the girls, he is more anxious than ever to meet him. Just then Mueller's plane flies by. Dave wonders why he has an amphibian when there is no water in the vicinity. Going to Mueller's, Dave pictures his former fiancée, haughty Barbara Holworthy, in Joan's place. When Dave refuses Mueller's demand for $2,000, Mueller takes $850 from Dave's wallet at the point of a gun, and threatening to collect more orders him out of the vicinity before daylight.

CHAPTER V.

BOTH girls had been relieved when he had returned to the house bearing no obvious traces of his encounter with their objectionable neighbor. He had given them a sketchy account of his interview, taking care to make no mention of the humiliating few minutes he had spent at the end of the gun, watching Mueller read his personal letters. Having given the girls to understand that the matter had been considered fairly satisfactorily, he had hastily changed the subject and had managed to keep the conversation away from Mueller during the dinner.

Planning To Sell.

"I know it's none of my business, Miss Marbury," he said, turning to Joan, "but are you two planning to run this grove for the rest of your lives?"

"Lord, no!" the younger girl blurted out with heartfelt emphasis.

Joan looked at her. Then her deep blue eyes met Dave's and she smiled.

"I don't believe so," she said. "It's too much for us to handle alone. The only wise thing to do seems to be to get rid of it. But this place represents all the capital we have in the world and this is a very poor time to sell it. I think if we can muddle along for a year or two longer, the market will come back. Then perhaps we can sell the house and the groves at a fair price."

"How in the world did you happen to come here?" he asked curiously. "I don't know from your accents that you aren't natives."

"Dave was a professor, head of the English Department, at the University of Wisconsin. He retired just before the boom started down here. He had saved a little money and had become fascinated where the climate was healthful and buying an orange grove. Poor old Dave had the idea that all he had to do was to put a basket under every tree and once a day make the rounds of the groves to collect the overhanging fruit. The rest of the time he would spend on the porch or in his study with a pile of books."

"Well, it wasn't so bad at first," she continued regretfully. "The groves did well, prices were good and labor at picking came. Then, so slowly at first that we didn't realize how absurd it was, the boom came along. We heard of the tremendous rise of prices at Miami and Palm Beach and Daytona. Cities on the West Coast began to hum with activity. Orlando and the lake country felt the effects and began to swarm with strangers. So when some promoters came here from New York and started a big development, there seemed nothing strange about it.

High Aims

"Their plan, you see, was somewhat similar to others which had been successful over a long period of years. They were to plant thousands and thousands of acres of citrus trees and take care of the groves for the owners at a reasonable fee per year. The purchasers themselves were to lead a country gentleman sort of life while the developers did all the work. They built a beautiful country club a mile and half down the country road. A sunken swimming pool, concrete tennis courts, golf courses—everything. There was a block of stores where you could buy anything that is sold south of Washington. A lot of people built beautiful Spanish houses and the developers put up a dozen more to give the subdivision an air of permanence. They even got the framework up for a million-dollar hotel."

"Dave made a little money at first. He bought some lots and sold them, almost doubling his money each time."

She stopped, looking dreamily into the fluttering blaze of the candles. Then, shaking her head as if to clear away a vision, she continued:

"You have no idea how contagious it all was, Mr. Ordway. People were dashing around in beautiful cars, gathering for dances at the country club every night. Sally, who has been living with us for several years, and I were having a wonderful time, playing tennis and swimming at the pool in air of permanence. Dave bought a roadster. We entertained a good deal. We thought it would all last forever. Oh, well, it doesn't matter now."

She looked full at Dave. He was thrilled by the courage he saw in those violet-blue eyes.

"One morning," she continued, "we noticed that the number of visitors had fallen off. Not so many people were coming in on the big buses which brought them here all the way from New York and Chicago. Then we realized that fewer workmen were pouring cement for the new hotel. Three weeks later, all construction work was stopped."

"At first we didn't believe that it was all over. We thought it would all begin again in the Fall. But the hundreds of residents here dwindled to scores, then to the hundreds. A man from a bank came to see Dave and when he had gone Dave told Joan that he had placed a mortgage on our grove in order to swing other deals. The place had shrunk in value until it was worth little more than the amount of the mortgage."

"Dave wasn't very well off at that. Sally and I took hold and did what we could but I couldn't afford to hire labor any more. I'm afraid we didn't do very well. But we've paid the interest on the mortgage with our grove. If we don't get a freeze this winter we may even be able to pay off part of the principal."
